The Daily Commercial

THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, 1868.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that runs the telegraph editorials, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

In point of the amount given on the market reports of the COMMERCIAL, we will state that they are constantly copied by the New York Economist, Shipping List, Iron Age, and other papers of the character in that and other cities, and that leading English commercial papers and circulars repeatedly express them with credit. There is within the limited radius, hardly an Iron Factory, Oil Refinery, or leading manufactory of any kind that is not a subscriber to the COMMERCIAL, principally because its reports are the only full and reliable ones of the Pittsburgh markets.

SELECT—The following are sticking up all over the country. A prominent member of the Chicago Board of Trade has offered to bet from $1,000 to $25,000 that Grant and Colfax will be elected in November, and has waited months without an offer.

THE NATION is looking for a decision from the United States Supreme Court declaring the Legal Tender act unconstitutional, as "the probable solution of the Greenback controversy." That journal remarks that there can be no doubt that a majority of the Court have arrived at this conclusion, and is prepared to hear the decision announced. This sounds well, with a statement we make some time since, based on information which was quite likely to be correct. The decision of the Court may be expected at the December meeting.

WHENEVER you find a participant in the rebellion pleading confidence to the loyal and supplicating in the conflict of the war, in almost every instance you find a supporter of Greeley and Colfax, on the other hand, the supporters of SEYMOUR and BLAIR in the South, almost without an exception, were active participants in the attempt to overthrow the Government, and declare it to be their intention to set aside the results of the war. How true here is the character of the great political struggle. It matters not as needed to suggest the whole argument, as affirmed by the Dublin Nation, which says that a rebel soldier can talk with a Northern Democrat upon political subjects with as much confidence of sympathy and common aim and purpose, as he could fail in talking with one of his old comrades in arms.

WHILE the mail and file of the Democracy are engaged in the disreputable task of dodging the issue of the Rebel Record, keeping upon him all manner of frivolous epithets and abuse, some of the leaders of the party have the courage and the good sense to adhere to the record. Among this class we find the Hon. C. H. PARKHURST, who evidently desires to evade the discussion by argument, and in some of the personalities which too often disgrace the political field. Speaking of GEN. GRANT and Mr. COLFAX, in his speech delivered at Bangor recently, Mr. PARKHURST used the following language:

> "I need not discourse the virtues or character of these gentlemen. I would not offer to do it in the presence of a people who have known them so long and so well. Their names are familiar as household words in every loyal home in the land. Their record is written in the history of the country, and all the intelligence of the world is familiar with it. The country will hush eighty-five thousand dollars to its banks, leaving sixty-five thousand dollars in the vaults. When the war ended, and the Democrats seized the State, the county officers controlled it was not necessary to take any more heavies paying the balance, and when it opened out of the Legislature was authorized to pension its paymaster, among every officer of the county ended in to do their existence that he was not in favor of it; thus the parties who loaned the money we now compelled to see the money. Who can doubt that Rome county, Kentucky, is a unit on the question of repudiating any and all debts, public as well as private?

The Democracy of Rome and Grant counties, (and we may add of Bluffs, Bourbon, and a dozen others,) believe the assertion contempt for the Southern Democrats who permitted them a hundred thousand dollars, and afterwards dominated conduct, waiting, like Micawber, for "something to turn up." The pre gramme of the revolutionists is easily announced, but, in our opinion, somewhat difficult of execution. Should the Democratic candidates seem to be winning, then those Southern leaders will "put them under the table and feed them on the crumbs and scraps." All the Rebels are to be regarded as traitors to the Union, and will be contented if treason all the way from by Lincoln and Congress, being unconstitutional, will be declared void, and those who assisted them out the Union will be hanged, and have all its property confiscated and given to the people of the North who have been unnecessarily taxed, and wrongly robbed, with no excuse and no pay to cut them, and no one to grace Grant under arrest, or to supply the place of anything Federal. Generals will then be, like the Bourbons, incapable of learning anything. If the Democratic party will put the issue squarely upon this platform, and declare it to be their intention to set aside the results of the war, then we have before us the character of the great political struggle. It matters not as needed to suggest the whole argument, as affirmed by the Dublin Nation, which says that a rebel soldier can talk with a Northern Democrat upon political subjects with as much confidence of sympathy and common aim and purpose, as he could fail in talking with one of his old comrades in arms.

THE Richmond Enquirer and Examiner cautions the friends of the late emancipation proclamation, and deprecates the open utterances of revolutionary sentiments. Speaking of the fall elections of 1868 it proceeds to believe that

> "The people of the North, the people of the States not in the Union, are sick and tired of the Radical rule. They are ready to vote for any man who will promise them relief. They are ready to vote for any man who will promise them relief. They are ready to vote for any man who will promise them relief

HELD IN AN ARSENAL AT WEST NEWTON.

Speech of Governor John W. Geary—Encouragement for Grant and Colfax.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

West Newton, Penn., August 26, 1868.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held on Main street on Tuesday night, in the interest of Grant and Colfax. After some excellent music by the West Newton Silver Cornet Band, the meeting was organized by calling Mr. Jacob F. Kreppe to the Chair, and electing a number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries.

The President, on taking the chair, thanked the meeting for the honor conferred upon him, and in a brief address, introduced the Hon. Henry Gist. John W. Geary.

Governor Geary, after a few preliminary remarks, entered into a lengthy and able discussion of the secession movement. After running over the records of the two parties, he showed the attitude of the opposing candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, and after drawing a comparison in which Seymour and Blair came to the unenviable, he eulogized Grant and Colfax in most eloquent terms. He closed his address by urging upon all good and true men the revival their country to duty—to their honor and right bravery for the election of Grant and Colfax.

At the close of the meeting, and at the suggestion of Governor Geary, three rousing old-fashioned cheers were given for Grant and Colfax.

FROM MARTIN'S FERRY, OHIO

Large Republican Meeting—Speeches of Hon. John A. Bingham.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

Martin's Ferry, Ohio, August 26, 1868.

The Hon. John A. Bingham addressed a very large meeting at this place yesterday afternoon, and also in the evening, many hundreds coming from the country and from neighboring towns. Our town hall was filled, crowded full, and as many more persons were obliged to remain in the streets, where it was thought best to adjourn to the street, which some one heard and a stand erected. The speaker resumed his argument, speaking two hours and a half. He applied the Democratic platform, gave the history and a few words of the wife of Congress looking toward reconstruction, and why they were obliged to do so. He was listened to with marked attention during the whole address, which in my humble opinion, will forever a shield to those who were present. COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE.

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE!

"CONSIDERABLE MERIT."

(From G. C. Ewing, M. D. New Philippolis, O.)

NEW PHILIPPOLIS, OHIO, Dec. 23, 1867.

MR. COE: I am acquainted with several persons who have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and from their testimony I am convinced that the medicine possesses considerable merit. I should be glad to be instrumental in the hands of Providence in relieving some of the afflicted, and should use it in my practice, but not only of others, by which I freely acknowledge, should such be the case, I am ignorant of the ingredients of which I am unacquainted with. Your numerous cures of gentlemen's medicines do not induce me to furnish their formulas to physicians, and if you are one of those, please send me some formulas, and it is quite likely that it will lead to the cure of a few besides, to say the least. I would suggest that it would be advisable to advertise your medicines in more places than you have in this State. There are many large, flourishing towns, where your medicine cannot be found, and which, I know so much, from what I know of your medicines, that would have a large sale. If you do so and wish to have your complete formula given, please make the ingredients known to me.

G. C. EWING, M. D.

"A VALUABLE THING."

(From James W. Clark, Baltimorville, N. Y.)

BALTIMORVILLE, July 24, 1868.

Gentlemen: Allow me to say that, although, as a physician, I have a great many good opinions of a great many things, I have a good many of them, and, therefore, still I am disposed to regard your "Coe's Dyspepsia Remedy" as a valuable thing. From the testimonials which you have published, and from the numerous favorable and, although I have employed other remedies in my practice, I am not prepared to recommend your remedy as the best one for the benefit of suffering humanity,

Hamill's Challenge—He Means Business.

In the publication of Hamill's challenge to the winner of the race on the 29th inst., in Tuesday's issue, the name should have read "Hamill," instead of "Hamilton," as printed. The challenge is now in proper shape to be handed over to the backers of the champion, Brown, of Boston, and will be made.

American Regatta.—An informal meeting of the boats that intend to participate in the regatta on the Monongahela river on the morning of the 29th, for the purpose of making arrangements for the start, was held last evening at the office of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, on Fifth avenue. The meeting was not very large, but a committee was appointed to look after the matter, and it is expected that all the boats will be on hand in the morning. Four more applications for entry have been received, making the number of boats entered for the regatta nine. The committee will meet again this evening, at the same place, when it is expected that the remaining boats will be heard from.
